The WOMAN'S LOOKOUT
By CLAUDE BURNS

WHEN YOU AND I WERE YOUNG—

In these modern days when Milady is inundated with ways and means of keeping her face perfectly clean and her complexion like the bloom of a peach, it is interesting to read of the methods employed "away back when".

"There are several wrong ways of washing the face, and but one right. Towel, flannel, sponge are all out of place where the face is concerned. The hands only should be used. Doctor Wilson's directions are: "Fill your basin about two-thirds full with fresh water; dip your face in the water, then your hands. Soap the hands well, and pass the soaped hands with gentle friction over the whole face. Having performed this part of the operation thoroughly, dip the face in the water a second time, and rinse it completely; you may add very much to the luxury of the latter part of the operation by having a second basin ready with fresh water to perform a final rinse." But the care of the complexion requires that not only the face but the whole body shall be daily subjected to the bath. The sponge-bath is, perhaps, the best, and the temperature of the water must be regulated by the sensations of the bather and by the season of the year. No one can deny the charm of clear, soft colour in the cheeks and lips; and it must be an incorrigible complexion indeed that will not yield to the measures that I have recommended.—Cassell's Magazine, 1877.

ZIPPER WAS STARTED BY LAZY MAN IN '30—

The zipper typifies our modern craze for speed, one quick pull and there the purse or dress is securely fastened. Most of us consider this time-saver a very recent invention but on the contrary, it was conceived nearly fifty years ago.

The story of the zipper goes back to the time when in the 1890's a certain man named Judson became weary of lacing his boots. An idea to avoid this monotonous business resulted in a fastener that would close the boots in a quicker way.

Three years later a friend became interested but it was 25 years later before the invention came to the public's attention, at which time the navy found many uses for it. Then followed an improvement which enabled the zipper to be stopped or locked at any point along its length. There it would stay without slipping back to the bottom. Then the problem came where an article had to be opened from top to bottom. Now this was overcome by having the fastener open at the bottom. Now a windbreaker or sweater doesn't have to be pulled over the head, and, as we all know, this very convenient fastener is used in countless ways.

MY NEIGHBOUR'S ROSES—

The roses red upon my neighbour's vine
Are owned by him; but they are also mine.
His the cost and his the labour too,
But mine as well as his, the joy their loveliness to view.

They bloom for me and are for me as fair
As for the man who gives them all his care.
Thus I am rich, because a good man grew
A rosebud vine for all his neighbour's view.

I know from that that others plant for me
And what they own may my joy also be;
So why be selfish, when so much that's fine
Is grown for you upon your neighbour's vine.

The Neighbour's Reply

Your neighbour, sir, whose roses you admire,
Is glad indeed to know that they inspire
Within your breast a feeling quite as fine
As felt by him who owns and tends that vine.

That those fair flowers should give my neighbour's joy,
But swell my own, and draws therefrom alloy
Which would lessen it's full worth, did I not know
That other's pleasure in the flowers I grow.

Friend, from my neighbour and this vine I've learned That sharing pleasure means a profit turned,
And he who shares the joy in what he's grown Spreads joy abroad and doubles all his own.

There are nearly 700 islands and islets in the Bahama group, but only 30 are inhabited.

Although China raises over two billion bushels of rice in a year, it still has to import rice from Burma, Siam and Indo-China.

Fur-trading in California began before 1783, when Spanish authorities first issued regulations governing collection of otter skins.

Light Coats for Summer

Becoming Models
in Wool Flannels,
Smooth Velours,
Soft Shetlands and Deep-Piled Fleece Favored . . .

By LISBETH

WHETHER YOU are going away for the summer, for a brief period only, or are staying right on the job all summer, you will need a topcoat.

Something light but warm and, of course, flattering, is necessary for summer wear, whether your home is in northwest Canada, nearer the United States border, or down in Florida or California, or anywhere else in the United States, and whether you are five or 80.

The classic white or pastel wool coat remains the background of many a summer wardrobe. In fine wool flannels, smooth wool velours, soft monotone shetlands and deep-piled fleeces, these coats are styled in simple adaptable models which can be worn over your sports suit or dress or slipped over an evening frock.

Baglan shoulders and notched collars are correct details—or perhaps a tuxedo front—very much in style this season — is your preference.

Three-Quarter Model

The three-quarter length coat in smooth wool velour, shown left, has the former styling, and is cut on full, straight lines.

Equally adaptable is a shorter white swaggar in summerweight wool fleece which has a spot of contrast in two trimming buttons.

Or you may prefer a touch of color in this very useful garment in your summer wardrobe. Plecked tweeds supply this need. These tweeds are especially adapted to full, wraparound styling or to the straight-lined boxy sports coat, which is new this season.

Oatmeal colored nubby tweed with a bright fleck is distinctively styled in the voluminous wrap-around swaggar coat shown right. It has raglan sleeves and high hand-collared neck, which is fastened with three large matching buttons high at the front.

Shetland wool, light in weight and lovely in all its varied shades, is well adapted to fitted and swaggar lines alike, and many shetland toppers are accompanied by matching tailored skirts.

One of the most interesting types of coat of the season accompanies a dress in ensemble fashion and is in sheer material. It often is full length, has short sleeves and usually is collarless. This type of coat cannot be classed as a casual, of course, for it is part of a suit, although it may be worn with other dresses.

Three-quarter length white wool velour coat, above; right, wrap-around summer swaggar coat in nubby wool tweed flecked in color.

Belts are important this summer. An especially attractive style is one of "summer snake" snake grain, which can be knotted in various ways.

Chic, Dressy Daytime Frock

The dress pictured is a hand-screened, border printed silk chiffon in black, with softly colored bayadere borders used vertically to give a long line to the figure.

A new version of the beehive in straw and trimmed with flowers on the crown is worn with it.

Veal Roast
Pickled Dried Apricots
Baked Potatoes Asparagus
Strawberry Shortcake
Coffee or Tea

This relish of dried apricots comes from Europe, is not expensive, and adds considerably to the toothsome of the meal. You could add a simple salad if you wished, or serve celery or radishes.

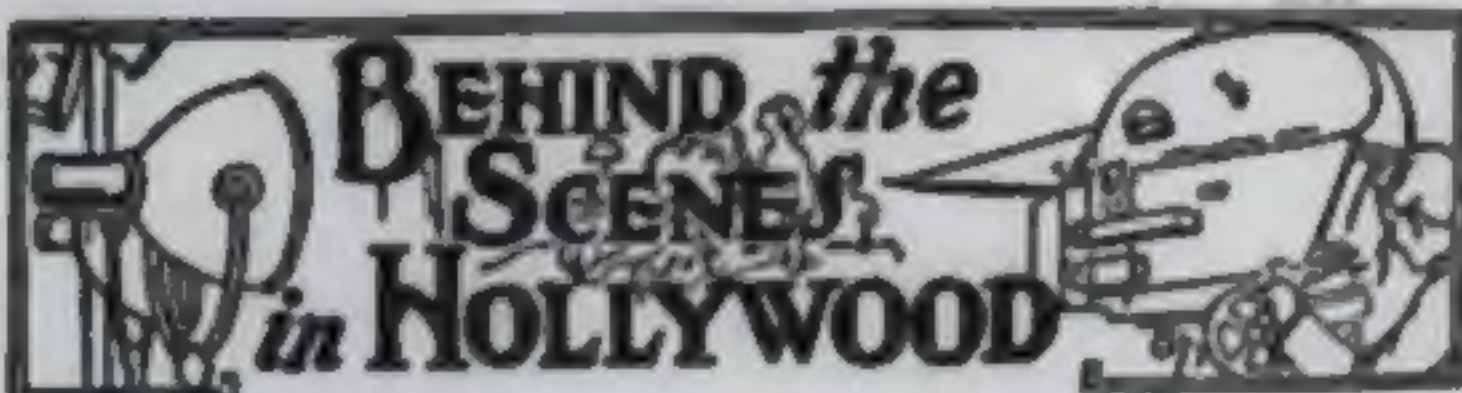

Today's Recipes

PICKLED DRIED APRICOTS—

One cup large dried apricots water to cover, one cup sugar, three tablespoons vinegar, 12 whole cloves, one-fourth teaspoon mustard seed, one two-inch stick cinnamon. Wash the apricots, then boil them gently for 10 minutes in water to cover. To this add the sugar, vinegar and spices and return to the stove and cook until the apricots are tender but still hold their shape. Put the fruit in small sterilized jars, pour over the hot syrup and seal. They will keep indefinitely in a cool place and may be used as needed. Particularly good with veal.

CHOCOLATE CHIFFON PIE—

One tablespoon granulated gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, one-half cup sugar, two squares melted chocolate, one cup hot milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup cream, whipped. Soak the gelatin in the water five minutes. Make a syrup of the sugar, chocolate, hot milk and salt. Add the softened gelatin to this mixture, stirring thoroughly. Allow to cool, add the vanilla and as the mixture begins to thicken, fold in the whipped cream. Fill a baked pie shell with this mixture and chill. Before serving, garnish with whipped cream.

Hollywood's campaign to build a new glamour girl out of Martha Raye's robust personality is continuing full blast.

In "Give Me a Sailor", Martha, who nowadays is gingerly dodging the "Oh, Boy!" antics around the studio, is on the receiving end of Paramount's full resources for gilding the lily.

The studio is sending out "glamor" stills featuring her comely legs, which figure as contest winners in the story.

Latest move is to install the star in the dressing room of Marlene Dietrich, who was Paramount's No. 1 glamour expert until she left that lot.

In that exotic apartment, Martha is being fitted with a special seductive wardrobe and is being put through the hands of hair dressing experts to create a new glamor coiffure.

A transatlantic telephone talk between Maureen O'Sullivan in Hollywood and her younger sister, Sheila, in England, has put an end to Sheila's plans to come to the movie capital and take pot luck, with Maureen's expected help, with a screen career.

As the result of the "dutch uncle" session, Sheila stays at the Rockhampton school near London, studies a year in France. Then she has her choice of entering either the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts or acting with the Abbey Players in Dublin.

By that time, Maureen figures, she herself may want to retire from the screen and Sheila can come across and try for her place in the industry. The M.G.M. star believes her kinship would be only a handicap to her sister if she tried Hollywood without the training background.

From William Dieterle's wartime memories came an echo today that uncovered a strange story of a man's pride and dogged ambition. Agents submitted to the director a script by an unknown writer named Louis Braulic. The name started wheels going in his mind. When they stopped, Dieterle recalled a fellow actor of that name in Max Reinhardt's acting troupe in Europe. But this youth had been reported killed in action during the war.

The director looked up the address, found in a modest apartment the man reported dead. Braulic, badly disabled by the war, had not broadcast the correction of the error in the casualty lists, has been sifting out writing for the American pulp magazines.

The agent had sought him after a call came for one of his stories.

After 20 years wandering in the show business, Fannie Brice at last moves into her own home in Hollywood Hills. Recently finished, it will house the stuff she has gathered through her career. Part of it is the oil paintings she has copied herself from Degas and other masters. Ann Pennington and the Brice children are helping set up house.

Maureen O'Sullivan

When they missed getting publicity stills on Merle Oberon's return to Hollywood Norma Shearer had her own photographer go out to the Oberon beach house, shoot a set of "social" art for her pal.

Clark Gable is having pictures made from the big newscast scenes of all time and will decorate a room with them at his house. M.G.M. is reproducing the Morro

Castle disaster and other big news for his current picture, "Too Hot to Handle."

Robert Taylor thinks this is a rib, but none of his pals admit parentage of it.

A taxi stopped at his valley ranch house the other night. A girl got out and asked for the Gable ranch. Taylor explained to the driver Gable's place was over at Encino. The girl looked dazed, said "I'm just a tourist looking for the great Gable," climbed in and departed.

Taylor's wondering whether Gable is the sly one or the girl is a consummate actress.

"The Authority on Authorities"

TOO LAZY TO COUNT

THERE ARE people who either can't or won't add up to 13. Usually they just "wouldn't be bothered". Or perhaps they "only play for fun". Others would like to ask them what fun they can find in just playing any old card. The real joy of the game is in figuring things out.

(Dealer: South, Neither side vulnerable.)

The bidding on this deal was opened by South with 1-Spade, to which North responded with 1-No. Trump. South's next bid was 3-Spades. After 3-No. Trumps by North, South showed his heart suit at four and North went to 4-Spades.

West started the defense by cashing the club K, followed by the A. When both East and South followed on both rounds, it was apparent that a switch was in order. The diamond 10 was next bid by West and a small card was played from dummy. East decided to hold up his ace to knock off the king. The result was that the diamond Q captured the trick and South had no difficulty in making his contract. His losses amounted to the two club tricks and the spade 4.

Had East been awake and listened to the bidding he would have realized that, as South followed on two club leads and had shown a distribution of six spades and four hearts by his bidding, he held only one diamond.

STYLE WHIMSIES

Stylists coming from Paris say Mainbocher's dinner dress with bustle drapery is a good bet for autumn.

Pleated skirts are almost a uniform where smartly dressed women gather in the daytime.

Yokes will be important in autumn coats and suits. Sometimes they will be deep and contrasting, sometimes merely used in the backs of coats or jackets that have inverted box pleats at the back.

She urged also that children be taught the rules for safety, which when implanted in their minds, will be followed automatically, when dangers confront them. ## DO YOU REMEMBER TEN YEARS AGO ???

From Our Files of 1928

Dairy farmers of Lincoln County had just completed circulating a petition in an endeavour to have Lincoln County named as a T.B. restricted area for cattle.
Building permits in the town of Grimsby for the month of May were announced as $17,380.00, with a total of 18 permits. This however, was a decrease from April, of $16,000. The total to that time confirmed the belief that that year for Grimsby would be one of the best it had enjoyed for a long time past.

Alvay Biala, employee at Merritt Bros., Basket Factory suffered a broken leg, when he got caught between two logs, in the log yard.

The unreasonable weather had farmers and fruit growers considerably alarmed over the fact that the district might experience a June frost, with a temperature as low as 45 degrees, and growth practically at a standstill.
T. N. Woolverton, director for the Township of North Grimsby on the executive of the Grimsby and North Grimsby Chamber of Commerce, requested that he local employment bureau consider operating in order to give preference to local pickers, but that with the indications for a heavy crop of Windsor and Montmorency cherries, it would in all probability be necessary to obtain pickers from outside sources, to take care of any emergency. In the same issue E. D. Smith and Sons Limited, Windsor, are advertising for women to fill strawberries (carfare paid).

A brass tablet to the memory of the late master and founder of Lake Lodge School, W. J. Drope, was unveiled on Sunday, June 3rd, at St. Andrew's Church, by the boys and teachers of Lake Lodge
School, the Rev. Gorm. Barrow, master of Lake Lodge school (now deceased) preaching a sermon, and the boys of the school forming the choir.

Grimsby Defeats Grimsby Beach

Peach Kings Win Fourth Game in a Row — Score 9
to 5 — Tufford Gets Four Hits and McBride Three.

A postponed league game was played last Friday night between Grimsby and the Beach on the latter's grounds. The Peach Kings contributed five errors, but still were able to win, mostly due to the hard hitting of Russ Tufford, who had two singles and two doubles in five trips to the plate, and scored four runs.

This month, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in co-operation with the Provincial Departments of Agriculture, distributes schedules to farmers for the purpose of collecting statistics of acreages under crop and the numbers of live stock and poultry on farms. An innova-

Cocks Suspended For One Game

Players Must Consider Authority of League Executive—Release Withdrawn.

A special meeting of the Fruit
Belt league executive was held on Monday evening at the Independent Office to deal with the case of Cecil Cocks, pitcher of the Smithville club.

Cocks applied for and received a release from the league early in the season, intending to play senior ball in St. Catharines. Later he joined the Smithville team and was told to turn back his release to the league, which he failed to do, and played two games with Smithville, ignoring the ruling of the league executive.

At Monday night's meeting, the release was turned in, but Cocks was suspended from competition until June 2nd, and the two games in which he played with Smithville, will be replayed at the end of the season, if they should have a bearing on the final standing of the league.

George Blenkins, of Pickering, was granted permission to play with the Peach Kings.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON PREVIEWED

Mark 14:3—"She hath done what she could."

Personal Devotion to Christ PREVIEW OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 5 is Mark 14:3-11, 27-31, the Golden Text being Mark 14:3, "She hath done what she could.")

"MARY HATH chosen the good part, which shall not be taken from her." This was Jesus' comment but a few months before the incident of our lesson, on the occasion when Mary "sat at the Lord's feet and heard his words." What she heard from the Master's lips that day greatly influenced Mary to do what she did for Jesus the last week of his life when she saw more clearly than did any of the apostles, the shadow of the cross coming upon him and brought her "flowers for the living," feeling that death at the hands of his enemies would leave her no privilege of honoring his body with the customary burial rites afterward.

Love's Tribute

Love always will find a way. No, "while he was in Bethany in the house of Simon the leper, as he sat at meat, there came a woman having an alabaster cruse of ointment of pure nard very costly; and she broke the cruse and poured it over his head." Merely a few weeks before this supper honoring Jesus in Bethany the whole village rang with the news of Jesus' mighty work in bringing Lazarus, Mary's brother, back to life after death. Now Jesus is about to suffer crucifixion at the hands of his enemies and Mary chooses this method of showing her devotion to him for all he has meant to her and to her family. If he can carry to the cross the odor of her ointment to speak to him of understanding sympathy and grateful love in an atmosphere of murderous hate, she will count no cost too great a sacrifice, though it represent a man's wages for a whole year, as indeed it did. Let others call it "waste" if they will. It will speak to him of love, when he will need it most and when none will be at hand to speak their love.

Love's Memorial

And Jesus did understand and appreciate. "Let her alone," he said to those who criticized her. "Why trouble ye her? She hath wrought a good work on me." She hath done what she could; she hath anointed my body beforehand for the burying. And verily I say unto you, whosoever the gospel shall be preached throughout the whole world, that also which this woman hath done shall be spoken of for a memorial of her." While through the intervening centuries myriads of memorials have crumbled into dust, Mary's memorial shines in undiminished glory wherever the gospel is preached.

Greene's Cymax

In horrible contrast to Mary's devotion there emerged the treachery of Judas Iscariot, who, even as he rebuked Mary for her generosity, "went away unto the chief priests, that he might deliver him unto them. And they, when they heard it, were glad and promised to give him money. And he sought how he might conveniently deliver him unto them." The meanest thing in the world is something which can be done by only a professing Christian, viz: to betray Jesus Christ. That can not be done except by one who works from the inside by professing without possessing personal devotion. And the sharpest pang of Jesus' sorrows was that he must say to those who had known him most intimately for three years, "Verily, I say unto you, one of you shall betray me, even he that eateth with me." With this possibility open to us, as it was to Judas and Peter to betray and deny our Lord, it behooves us all to "watch and pray that we enter not into temptation."

IF 'TWOULD ONLY STAY JUNE ALL THE YEAR

If 'twould only stay June all the year,
With its soft, cloudless skies always clear,
With the fragrance so sweet,
From the flowers we greet,
It would help drive away much of fear.
It's the month when fond wedding bells ring,
When the wild birds their songs sweetly sing,
It's the one month of year,
That runs over with cheer,
And the orchards their blossoms then bring.
And the woodlands are decked in bright greens,
Their robes fit for earth's noblest queens,
And the farms with their fields
Are expressive of yields,
That, some later, the harvester gleans.

JUNE—Jewel, dispeller of fear,
How happy we are when it's here,
Like birds on the wing,
We'd be thankful and sing.
If 'twould only stay June all the year.

—Ralph Gordon.

Poems That Live

THE ANGLER'S INVITATION

Come when the leaf comes, angle with me,
Come when the bee hums over the lea,
Come with the wild flowers—
Come with the wild flowers—
Come when the singing bird calls for thee!
Then to the stream side, gently we'll lie,
When the gray trout slide silently by,
Or in some still place
Over the hill face
Hurrying onward, drop the light fly.

Then, when the dew falls, homeward we'll speed
To our own loved waifs down on the mead,
There, by the bright hearth,
Holding our night mirth
We'll drink to sweet friendship in need and in deed.

—Thomas Ted Stoddard.

SONG

I came to the door of the House of Love
And knocked as the starry night went by;
And my true love cried "Who knocks?" and I said
"It is I."

And Love looked down from a lattice above
Where the roses were dry as the lips of the dead;
"There is not room in the House of Love
For you both," he said.

I plucked a leaf from the porch and crept
Away through a desert of scuffs and scorns
To a lonely place where I prayed and wept
And wove me a crown of thorns.

I came once more to the House of Love
And knocked, ah, softly, and wistfully,
And my true love cried "Who knocks?" and I said
"None now but thee."

And the great doors opened wide apart
And a voice rang out from a glory of light,
"Make room, make room for a faithful heart
In the House of Love, tonight."

—Alfred Noyes

Illustrated Sunday School Lesson

Scripture—Mark 14:3-11; 27-31

A few months before Jesus' death he was a guest at the home of Mary and Martha, and Mary sat at his feet and listened to him, learning much of his teaching from the hands of his enemies.

The last week of Jesus' life he was again in Bethany, and Mary anointed Jesus' head with precious ointment. Judas criticized her act as wasteful. But Jesus commended Mary for anointing him beforehand for burial.

After criticizing Mary's act of devotion Judas went out and bargained with Jesus' enemies for thirty pieces of silver as his price for help in delivering Jesus to them without violence.

After Judas left the group around the supper table Jesus warned the other disciples that all of them would forsake him that night and that Peter would even deny that he knew Jesus. (GOLDEN TEXT—Mark 14:3)

NOTES ON Canadian Birds

By G. H. RICHARDSON

One of the few birds which frequent cities during the summer is the nighthawk. Nighthawks are most frequently seen at dusk and early morning, flying after moths and various other insects in the dim light. They fly in a very distinctive manner, going straight ahead with steady beats, then rising slightly with a quick flutter. At the peak of this flutter, they give their nasal, twanging "pee". The man who first they sit lengthwise on a branch instead of across it. This, with their color, produces a "bump on the log" effect so that they are hard to see.

The nighthawk has a forked tail described this species called it "stringed instrument of the evening—Chordelle. Some scientific names are quite interesting when broken up in this way.

The nighthawk and whip-poor-will are representatives of a family commonly known as goatsuckers. As these birds frequent open glades to catch their food, at some distant time the idea originated that they were waiting around for a chance to steal milk from the goats. Although this idea has long since been exploded the group still retains this name.

Have Unusual Characters

Goatsuckers have a number of unusual characters. When perched, with a pronounced white band across it. The whip-poor-will has a round-tipped tail with white along the edges. The large white spots on the wing of a nighthawk are a second point of identification of the bird in flight.

Goatsuckers have rather large heads for their size and large liquid or misty eyes. These give a gentleness of expression. The very small bill of goatsuckers gives a false impression of the size of the mouth, for the mouth opens back to the eyes and produces a gape which is truly amazing. Indeed the whip-poor-will's scientific name means "cave-mouth" which is a fine bit of description in one word. This tremendous gape permits the birds to readily capture large moths which are caught and eaten on the wing. Incidentally the flight performance of nighthawks in pursuit of prey is worth the watching. They dive for amazing distances, seeming up again like an airplane.

Waxwings Are Erratic

Waxwings are very erratic in their movements. They may be around all winter or they may not. Almost any time of the year may see them moving about in flocks, but late May and early June seems to be the time they are most in evidence. In color, waxwings are a soft brown, shading into yellow on the abdomen and white under the tail. The wings and tail are slate gray, the latter tipped with a band of yellow. Regardless of sex, age or season, the midribs of certain wing feathers (and sometimes the tail) are elongated beyond the vane and are flattened and bright red, looking like sealing wax.

By large lakes, terns are in evidence. These birds, known often as "sea swallows" are swallow-like in form and are very graceful fliers. The common tern is pearl-gray mottled, paler, on the abdomen, elsewhere white, with a black cap and red, black-tipped bill. The black tern is gray above and black below. Its flight is the swiftest and most graceful of any of our birds.

STAMP CORNER

BY JAMES MONTAGNES

New British Empire Stamps at TOP From Nigeria and Trinidad and Tobago; BELOW from Sierra Leone and Perak.

Stamps courtesy Stanley Gibbons Ltd., London, England, and Philatelic Department, T. Eaton Co. Ltd., Toronto.

Old stamp collections are not always valuable. Many one-time philatelists on finding their boyhood or girlhood collections are of the opinion that the stamps, after a lapse of many years, are today valuable. Many people inheriting collections from deceased relatives also immediately want to cash in on the "valuable" stamp collection.

There are many factors involved in ascertaining the value of an old collection. First is the state of the stamps. Many an old collection abounds with torn or slightly damaged stamps, cutting down on the value. Most old collections consist of stamps common in that day, and therefore of little commercial value today, since those stamps were issued in the millions. The number of old collections available to dealers and collectors also has a bearing on the market value of a collection.

Not All Old Stamps Valuable
Stamps which add to the value of an old collection in Canada, are old Canadian and United States stamps, since most collectors are interested in obtaining copies of these two countries, and some of the older stamps are now hard to pick up, being issued, especially in Canada, in limited quantities. Old issues of any part of the British Empire also enhance the value of an old collection. Most common old European stamps are of little commercial value, but those of some of the smaller states and those states which now form part of Germany and Italy, have some value. The stamps of little known countries Asiatic states, if not forgeries, will make the old collection a better buy for the dealer or philatelist.

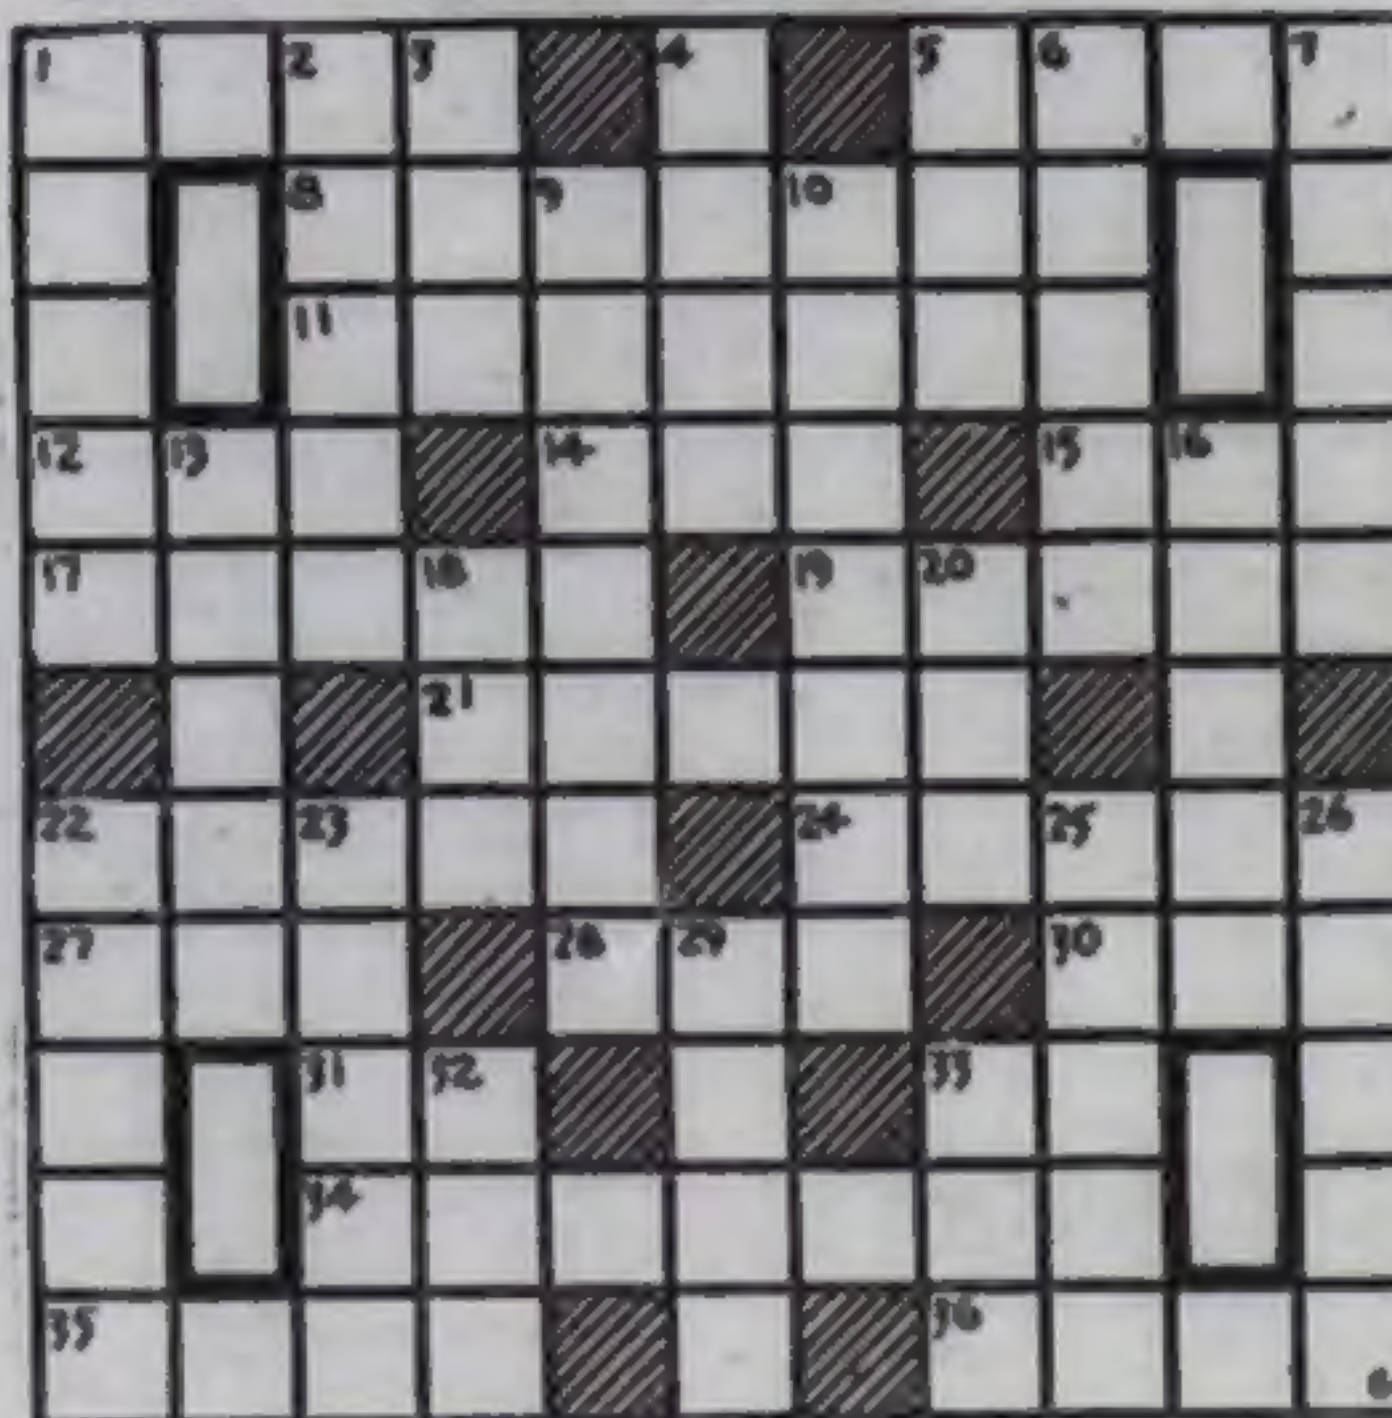

Central and South American early issues are a matter for the expert to judge on, for it was the habit of many countries during the last century to sell the plates to printers, and the printers could then print as many of the old issues as they could find a market for.

As a general guide, if your old collection is strong in old Canada, British Empire and United States stamps of last year, ... Roumania is to have four new issues soon, for painter, Orlovsky, for the Bucharest exhibition for child welfare and for the eighth anniversary of King Carol's reign ... France is to issue a stamp for the international soccer championship matches ... Belgium is to have at least six more new issues this year including a set for the meeting of the League for Passive Protection Against Air Raids, an armistice day stamp, a set for the water festival at Liege. ... Tunisia will issue a twenty value set for the 50th anniversary of the post-office administration. ... Jugoslavia will shortly issue four charity sets for child welfare, war veterans, tubercular railway workers, and the national aero club. ... Three-cent stamps will be issued in June by the United States.

Wrong and right bird bath planting

In the winter we lure birds to our gardens with feeding trays, and in the summer with bird baths for both drinking and bathing purposes. There are wrong and right ways of planting about a bird bath, and many people by making a wrong planting unwittingly endanger the lives of the very birds they wish to attract.

Figure 1 of this Garden-Graph shows a bird bath set in the wrong type of planting. It is surrounded with tall growing shrubs and perennials which are permitted to grow close to the bird bath itself. This is dangerous for the birds that come to drink or bathe, since the tall, thick planting affords a screen in which their four-footed enemies can hide, ready to pounce upon the unsuspecting birds.

Figure 2 shows a decorative type of planting around a bird bath, and one that does not permit bird enemies to lie in hiding.

When buying or making a bird bath do not select one which holds any great depth of water, as the small birds are afraid of deep water. The depth of water at the outer rim should not exceed one inch and the depth in the centre should not exceed three inches.

Cultural Control Of Weeds in Lawns

(Experimental Fan Note)

Unfortunately there is as yet no easy and simple method of eradicating weeds in lawns, states A. M. Ross, Division of Forage Plants, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. A considerable number of experiments have been conducted with chemical weedkillers on turf, but so far most of the results obtained have been relatively unsuccessful. Improper or careless applications of weed-killers often result in serious damage to the turf and, until a great deal more is known about these chemicals, the ordinary layman would do well to turn towards cultural methods of combating weeds in lawns.

The logical control of annual weeds is to prevent them from seeding themselves. As soon as they show signs of flowering, the lawn should be mowed so as to raise these flowering shoots off the ground. Then cut the grass with a mower fitted with a good grass-catching attachment, and destroy the cuttings. It is a good policy to rake and cut the lawn a second time, the second raking to cross the first at right angles so that all the potential seed-heads are raised up and destroyed.

One of the best systems of controlling both annual and perennial weeds is by doing everything possible to promote a dense and vigorous growth of turf. A dressing of a good complete fertilizer, applied at the rate recommended by the manufacturer, in the spring or early summer will help considerably in this regard. Generally it is not necessary to water a lawn every night, and in most cases one good watering a week will give much more satisfactory results than several light sprinklings.

One of the most common methods of introducing weeds to a lawn is to actually sow them along with grass seed. The Department of Agriculture officially grades all lawn grass seed sold in Canada, and if only Grade 1 seed is purchased the buyer may feel assured that this seed is clean and that another step is taken towards obtaining a turf free from weeds.

CANADIAN GARDEN SERVICE

By GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

Support

As pointed out by W. J. Cameron of the Ford Motor Co., speaking before the Canadian Clubs of Western Ont., this spring, support for a young tree may not be natural but it is sensible and necessary during the early stages of growth. The same advice applies to many garden plants and shrubbery. Dahlias, tomatoes, large cosmos or nicotines, young shade trees, new climbers, all benefit from some artificial support while they are getting started.

For tall individual flowers or tomatoes, 4-foot stakes of wood or steel are advisable and the plant is tied to these loosely with soft twine or raffia. Stouter and perhaps longer stakes will be used with shade trees and correspondingly shorter ones for the smaller flowers. With vines getting ready to cling to fence or wall, string is used or perhaps adhesive tape or staples where it is impossible to tie.

With sweet peas, and ordinary garden peas one may use wire, from three feet to six feet high depending how tall the peas grow in the reader's particular part of Canada. Old gardeners, however, state that brush or strings are preferable for the peas as the wire may burn the tender foliage.

With tomatoes, dahlias, etc., usually side shoots are nipped off and the main stem only allowed to grow.

Cultivation

Since time immemorial gardening has been associated with cultivation and scientists now agree that there was a very good reason for the combination. Cultivation not only kills weeds, which disfigure beds of flowers and vegetables and rob these respectable things of moisture and food, but it also keeps soil open so that it will remain sweet and absorb necessary chemicals from the air. Bacterial action beneath is also assisted.

While a small hoe is almost an essential implement there are today other things which will relieve much of the drudgery which the hoe still represents in the eye of the growing country boy. A little three fingered wire cultivator will work wonders around and under growing flowers and vegetables. A Dutch hoe which is shoved along about an inch under the soil will cultivate a hundred feet or so of perennial bed in thirty minutes.

Feed the Lawn

This lawn liberally mixed with weed, almost invariably indicates impoverished soil. Sometimes only a liberal application of commercial fertilizer or well rotted manure is necessary to restore rich greenness. Well fed grass will usually crowd out most weeds though it will appreciate some help from the gardener who does not mind spending a few hours with a sharp long or short handled weeder. If this implement is not available a good substitute will be an ordinary butcher's knife. Simply cut the roots well below the surface and remove weeds, letting surrounding grass and soil remain. Such weeding should be done when soil is fairly moist otherwise whole chunks of grass will come out with each weed.

Where grass is very thin it will also be advisable to scratch lightly with rake and sow some good grass seed. At this time holes may be filled up gradually with good soil and sown with grass.

Shaded Lawns

If moss is growing in the lawn usually it is a sign of sour soil. Remedy is an application of garden lime. If the ground is shady, special shade loving grass should be sown and possibly some of the overhanging tree branches removed.

If roots of these trees are close to the surface, it may be necessary either to abandon grass in favor of flag stones or to recover surface with another six inches of good soil.

Sometimes tree roots work up towards the surface simply because there is water there and none beneath. Heavy watering of lawns once a week rather than light daily sprinkles will prevent this danger and will also be best for the lawn itself.

In cool weather lawns can be cut short every four or five days if growing fast, but in the hot weeks of summer less frequent and less short mowing is advisable.

Filling In

It is a good plan, old gardeners state, to use started annual flower plants of the kinds mentioned above for planting among tulips and other spring flowering bulbs which will be past their best in a few more weeks. They need something to hide dying foliage. Then again quick growing annuals will always be useful for filling in any blind spots in the perennial beds where winter has been unusually severe.

CONVICTED OF MURDER

Sentenced to be hanged on July 8 for the slaying of his wife, Gertrude, last April 26, William McQuarrie is shown being led from the Winnipeg court-house to the jail. He was convicted of killing his wife by slashing her throat with a pen knife as they were returning from the juvenile court.

TO WED DODGE HEIR

Daniel G. Dodge, heir to over nine million dollars of the vast Dodge estate, will marry Loreen MacDonaid, ABOVE, 19, telephone operator, of Gore Bay, Ont., according to an announcement made by Dodge's mother in Detroit.

The haughty Hapsburg family has recently disinherited the Archduke Albrecht for marrying a commoner. The Hapsburgs are, of course, totally unaware that the world disinherited all of them some time ago.

One of the 248 graduates honored at the spring graduation of the University of British Columbia, was Arthur P. Dawe—"lucky Dawe"—the young Vancouver man who won $40,000 in the Irish sweep eight years ago. He had quit college at the end of his second year to go to work. After the novelty of his fortune wore off he enrolled unobtrusively at the university again and completed his course. He is shown here receiving his bachelor of arts degree from Registrar Stanley Mathews.

TRIPLET CALVES MAKE BOVINE HISTORY

Twin calves are unusual, and triplets are almost unheard of in the bovine world. But a cow on the farm of Fred Mitchell, near Oxford, O., gave birth to three heifer calves and they're all healthy as you can see. The whitest calf was born a week before the other two.

Judgment of Fly Balls Main Outfield Requisite

BY LLOYD A. PERCIVAL

In most "pick-up" ball games the outfielder's job is not very popular. Possibly this is the reason good "garden" men are few and far between. Ring Lardner, one of the greatest baseball humorists, once said, "They call it left field, because they fill all the other places first and then if there is anyone left they send him out there."

Outfielders must have speed and the ability to start quickly. More so than for other players, good judgment of hard-hit balls is necessary. They also have to have an excellent "arm" and an accurate throw. While an infielder can hold his place by fielding, the outfielder must be able to hit.

Wear Well in Outfield

One advantage of playing the outfield is that you usually last longer there. History proves that. Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Zach Wheat and many others went way past the 15-year mark before they gave up.

In throwing from the outfield use a long, smooth and easy action with the full arm. When going back run sideways so you can see the ball at all times. One or two major league players can turn their backs and run to the spot—but I wouldn't advise you to try that!

Too many outfielders think all they have to do is chase flies. But the smart player studies the batter as closely as does the pitcher. He shifts with each man. The best build for an outfielder is the greyhound type—slim, long legs and fast.

General Rules

There are general rules for playing a hitter—for instance, a left hand hitter will hit to right field and a right hander to left or centre, but play each man safe—he may cross you up! Play deep with a fast ball pitcher in the box. These rules are not iron-clad—you must learn to play for each batter.

Catching fly balls, judging them for height, distance and direction is tough, but the knack can be acquired. Practice at every opportunity. The best outfielders look bad the first few times out so don't get discouraged. Keep chasing them. Practice and practice alone will make you a good outfielder.

Don't forget, watch your throwing, study your hitter, and keep practicing!

Joe Moore of the Giants reaches for a high one. Like this one, there will be lots of balls come to the outfield that you can't help running after, but you'll save yourself a lot of unnecessary exercise by playing the batter.

You're Telling Me

By William Pitt

An optimist is a fellow who thinks parliament will pass a law making it obligatory for all public officials to pay income tax—without, immediately, passing another law raising M.P.'s salaries.

Zadok Duskopf says the recession is over. Today a theatre box-office employee was snooty toward him.

The Nazis will not be represented at the New York World's fair, to be held in 1939. It seems Herr Hitler does not understand the word "fair" in any of its various meanings.

As a small boy we read about the Spanish "main". We still read about it—but, unfortunately, the newspaper stories now make it read Spanish "malmed."

Another achievement—which no thoughtful person may overlook—to the credit of Mussolini and Hitler is that they have successfully abolished all references to "Sunny Italy" and "Jolly Germany."

A railroad exhibit valued at more than $1,000,000 will be a feature of the 1938 Golden Gate World's fair at San Francisco.

eight acres with house and out-buildings, but this expropriation offer did not carry any set price but read "settlement to be made on the basis of the Dow award."

Following publication of the Dow award, the department communicated with Aplin, through E. H. Cleaver, offering a price of $11,900 in full for the farm, buildings and damages. Aplin indicated to the department that he would like to retain his home and the eight acres. A conference was arranged whereby department land buyers and Aplin met in Mr. Cleaver's office at Burlington. After four hours' negotiations settlement was made.

Growers contend, however, according to Wm. Mitchell, one of the negotiators for the fruit farmers, that none of these cases should be heard by the Municipal Board. They argue that this Board is a politically appointed Board and that it has no right to hear these arbitration cases. They claim that a grower should be allowed to pick his own arbitrator, the Department pick their arbitrator and then the two arbitrators pick the third member. The manner in which the Municipal Board is constituted allows no appeal from any award they may make. Under the other three-man system a decision could be appealed to other tribunals.

Plans are being considered to go to the Privy Council in England and get a decision on the rights and powers and the validity of any decisions or awards that the Municipal Board may hand down in these cases.

Fighting Game Fish Across Canada

HOLIDAY opportunities in the thousands of lakes, rivers and streams of Canada afford fishing opportunities which are unexcelled anywhere in the world. The wide stretches of the Dominion are liberally supplied with forest and lake-land, abounding with game fish and animals, where lovers of the great outdoors can find a sports district to suit their every whim.

Fishing conditions are so varied in Canada and the species of game fish so numerous that a small booklet is required merely to list all the fish and regulations of the different sections. Deep-sea fishing is found on both ocean coasts, for half-ton tuna off Nova Scotia and equally large sharks near Vancouver Island; five-pound black bass at the small-mouth Gap Camp, Lake of the Woods district, and in hundreds of lakes in Eastern Canada, vie for popularity with 40-pound muskies at such favored resorts as the French River Camp in Ontario; fighting trout of several species are found everywhere in Canada, most popular regions among anglers being the Laurentian Mountains, north of Montreal, or the mile-high lakes surrounding Banff and Lake Louise in the Canadian Rockies; and mighty salmon bring joy to the hearts of anglers in the Maritimes.

These few highlights of Canada's many fishing opportunities illustrate why Canadian sportsmen fishing in their home waters are joined every year by so many thousand anglers from the United States and overseas. Conditions, possibilities and regulations vary so widely in different sections that anglers planning to visit strange districts would do well to find out all about them in advance from A. O. Seymour, general tourist agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal, or from fishing booklets obtainable at all Canadian Pacific offices.
